Summary

Shawn has more than 14 years of field experience, including surveying, estimating, field testing, and quality assurance project management. Every day, he draws on an impressive resume of inspection experience, including utility, grading and base, erosion control, and paving inspection. His responsibilities at Stonebrooke include the firm's regulatory compliance with federal, state and local agencies.

“ Shawn approaches projects as if they were his own.

He takes everything he works on very personally. He doesn't wait for the contractor to finish a job before he takes an interest in the materials and the work that's being done. By staying on top of what's going on — using his materials, testing and construction experience — he helps avoid delays and costly changes.

He's the kind of advocate that clients want to have working on their projects — someone who's always looking out for their best interests. And his approach to his work is another great example of what Engineering Responsible Solutions really means.

— Tim Arvidson, PE, Vice President, Stonebrooke Engineering
